

Rotavirus

Rotavirus is a gastrointestinal infection that most commonly occurs in late winter/early spring, although, it can occur any time of the year. It is the most common cause of vomiting and diarrhea in infants and young children.

This is an oral liquid vaccine that will be administered by our medical assistants at the time of your child's check-up.

<http://www.aap.org/immunization/illnesses/rotavirus/rotavirus.html>